Correlation of law and morality in law study by N.M. Korkunov

N.A. Pegova

Heuristically important for N.M. Korkunov is to examine the relation of law and morality in the historical context, in the context of the development of society. The theorist declares that morality has an unconditional right to influence, in the sense that also differentiates interests when the realization of that or those moral beliefs accepted by the majority of society, and the implementation of relevant interests regarded as the most moral term from the point of view of expediency.

Keywords: law, morality, public interest, development
