On the paradigm of the historical development of Russian society and the state

M.A. Kuznetsov

It is applied the concepts of God, the People, the State as factors that make up the paradigm of development of Russian society and the state. The Trinity of the factors of development of Russian society and the state includes not only historical, biological, rational, cultural, and metaphysical legacy of national life. The paradigm of historical development of Russian society and the state includes issues of demography, of birth, upbringing, education, residence in a particular socio-cultural environment. It is noted that usage in modern Russian education diversified education and methods of "growing" a culture of tolerance, leads to denationalization of the consciousness of young people, promote ideological and moral relativism, which is contrary to trends in the preservation of Russian society and the state. It is emphasized that the essence of the correction of the situation is the adoption by the Russian state ideology of the Russian idea of Conciliarity, national consciousness and consciousness of Unity and national culture and implementing it in the system of Russian education. It is proved that spiritual and moral education of young people on the values of national-cultural ideology and contributes to the formation of social personality type, meeting the requirements of the modernization of society and state, while maintaining the historically established socio-cultural code of Russian people.
